

FURCATION RECRUITMENT

Role : Entertainments - Host

Description

Furcation is looking to recruit entertainments host volunteers to join a well-established, friendly and welcoming team. The role will require performance on stage with a mix of scripted/planned and ad-libbed performances. You will be required to interact with our attendees in a mixture of games, interactivities and shows. You will also be involved in the planning stages of said events from beginning to end and there may be some events where you are responsible for the full planning of it, communicating with the events management on progress and what plans are.

We will also train you in new, essential skills to do this role, so even if you do not entirely match the 'non-essential' requirements below, we would still like to hear from you if you have the confidence to learn and apply said learning to the task!

Requirements

- Communication skills are essential for this role, as entertainments work together as a team, all on the same page just in case of anything that occurs.
- A stage presence or confidence in public speaking is not strictly essential, but highly preferential. Stage fright cannot be cured by virtual meetings and training, and this is fully understood, so you will be supported by the entertainments management team throughout the convention.
- A knowledge of health and safety is also highly preferential, as we will be interacting with attendees, following rules and regulations in place.
- Any performance skills are also advantageous, but not essential, such as circus skills, magic, singing, music production, dance skills, ad-lib/improv skills, etc.
